

K. OF P. OFFICERS PRAISE MEETING

Seventeenth District Session Pronounced Most Successful Ever Held in Indiana.

J. C. BICE WAS OLDEST KNIGHT

Marling Lodge at Uniontown Given Premium for Having Largest Percent of Members Present.

Prominent Knights of Pythias who attend the various district meetings throughout the state declared that the meeting here Thursday was the most successful in many respects that has ever been held in any district in Indiana. Many of the visitors were heard to comment upon the cordial greeting extended by the citizens of Seymour and the special efforts exerted by the people generally to make the day a success. Among the members of the order the spirit of good fellowship was very apparent and this added to the pleasure of the meeting.

According to the previous announcement two prizes were given at the secret session Thursday night. One was offered for the lodge having the largest percentage of its membership present and the other for the oldest Knight of Pythias present. The first mentioned prize, a silver mounted gavel, was awarded to the Marling lodge at Uniontown, forty-two of the total membership of fifty-two being present. J. C. Bice, a member of Hesperian Lodge, Franklin, was the oldest Knight attending the meeting and was presented with a handsome emblematic button. Mr. Bice was seventy-five years of age last February and has been affiliated with the K. of P. lodge for forty-three years.

The secret session at the Majestic Theater was one of the features of the day's program. More than seven hundred and fifty members attended and witnessed the degree work given by Hermon lodge. The manner in which the degree was conferred was highly commended by the visitors. Fifty-one cities and towns in Indiana besides a large number of other states were represented at the meeting. The large emblem which was erected at the intersection of Second and Chestnut street attracted much attention. The designs were made and painted by John Bartlett and the illumination was furnished by electric light globes of the colors of the order. The Seymour Military Band gave a concert down town at 7 o'clock during which there was a display of fireworks.

The Pythian Sisters served excellent meals at noon and at six o'clock in the room formerly occupied by the Dry Light Dry Goods Store, and at the supper hour James E. Watson made a short address in which he paid a beautiful tribute to the work of the auxiliary and also to the individual members of the Pythian Sisters.

The decorations used by the various stores were removed today and only at a few places were there any evidences of the gala day.

The public address of Past Grand Chancellor James E. Watson in the afternoon was pronounced one of the very best features of the meeting. It was eloquent and forceful and was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience that filled the opera house. His theme was brotherhood as taught by the Knights of Pythias, and this doctrine, he said, is as wide as the centuries and as deep as humanity. The doctrine of fraternity was taught by Christ. "Peace on earth, good will toward men," embodies this idea. Mr. Watson said the purpose of the Knights of Pythias is to teach friendship, charity and benevolence, and these virtues make men better and more helpful to each other. They teach and hold up the idea of character. This order is endeavoring to teach men to think rightly about their fellowmen. Good and wholesome thoughts tend to make men better and more useful. The doctrine of fraternity teaches us to look for the best things in life and to abhor the pessimist and habitual fault finder. We are responsible for our thoughts as well as our acts. Character is moulded by thought. The doctrine of fraternity helps us to think right and to do right for right's own sake. It establishes equality among men. Because this doctrine is taught by the man of Nazareth has taken hold of and directed the thoughts of men this is the best day the world ever saw; best in charity, best in love, best in benevolence.

One feature of especial interest at the night meeting was the use of the Senate Chamber scenery which was painted recently by Mr. Bartlett. The scenery added greatly to the beauty of the work and was highly complimented by the supreme and grand officers who readily signed a recommendation for Mr. Bartlett.

COURTESY OF BUSINESS MEN ACKNOWLEDGED BY KNIGHTS

Resolutions of Appreciation Adopted by Pythians at Meeting Thursday Night.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Knights of Pythias at the secret session Thursday night. We, your committee on resolutions, beg leave to make the following report.

Whereas, this seems to be the largest district meeting ever held in this grand domain,

And whereas, such meetings as this do much for the good of the order,

And whereas, this meeting has been an eminent success, therefore,

Be it resolved, that this meeting extend a vote of thanks to Supreme Chancellor Carling, to Past Grand Chancellor Watson, to Past Grand Chancellor Hunt, to Past Grand Chancellor Monahan, and to the other distinguished visitors present for their attendance and the efforts they have contributed to make the meeting a success.

And be it further resolved, the Deputy Grand Chancellor and the committee in charge receive the thanks of this meeting for their untiring efforts to make it the success it has been.

And be it further resolved, that this meeting hereby expresses its appreciation of the courtesy of the business men of this city in closing their places of business during our afternoon session.

And be it further resolved, that we extend our thanks to the newspapers of this city which during the past weeks have used their columns in behalf of this meeting.

And be it further resolved, that a vote of thanks be extended to the Pythian Sisters for the generous repast furnished at so reasonable a remuneration.

And be it further resolved, that the

JACKSON COUNTY AUTO TAX MONEY

Total of $539.58 Paid in and Warrant is Issued to Treasurer For $1,450.63.

MONEY TO BE USED FOR ROADS

Secretary of State Divided Receipts Amounting to $118,245.58 Into Three Funds.

As a business proposition, the automobile tax law is a good thing for Jackson county. The county paid to the secretary of state a total of $539.58 and received in return $1,450.63. County Treasurer Belding has received the warrant for the above amount and the money is ready for distribution for improvement of county highways.

The secretary of state divided the money received into three funds. Jackson county's share of the first fund to be divided equally among the counties amounted to $428.42. $1.49 was paid for each mile of free gravel and macadam road in the county amounting to $881.43. There are 589 miles of improved roads in the county. $140.78 was the amount received as the share of the third fund.

L. G. Ellingham, secretary of state, has completed the official report to W. H. O'Brien, auditor of state, on the total receipts and disbursements of money from the registration and licensing of motor vehicles in Indiana during the first six months that the new auto registration law has been in effect. The new law went into effect July 1, 1913, and the report covers the period to January 1, 1914.

The total amount of fees received by the state in that time was $150,235.20, the total expense of operating the secretary's licensing department was $31,989.72, and the net amount of license fees distributed to the counties was $118,345.58.

The distribution of the total amount of money received by the secretary is made by law in the following manner: One-third is to be distributed equally among the ninety-two counties; one-third of the total is to be distributed pro rata among the counties according to the number of miles of free gravel and macadam roads therein; one-third is to be distributed pro rata among the counties, according to the total amount of auto revenue that is received from them by the secretary.

The expense of the first half year of operation does not correctly indicate the operating expenses that the new department hereafter will incur. Due to primary expenses of getting the new department of the secretary's office under way and to the fact that the total expenses of this half year will be only slightly augmented throughout the entire ensuing year, the expense total appears larger for the last six months than the expense total of 1914 will appear in relation to the total amount of receipts. The heavy collections of auto revenue will be made during the first month of this year and the fees collected up to July will be total amounts of fees required by law. Following that date, however, the license fees are cut each month.

STRONG APPEAL FOR TEMPERANCE

Rev. T. J. Owen Delivered Closing Address Thursday Night of W. C. T. U. Rally.

REVIEWED LINE OF PROGRESS

Declared Moral People of Nation Were Joining Hands to Abolish Legalized Rum Traffic.

The Rev. T. J. Owen, pastor of the First Baptist church at Bedford, made a strong appeal for the cause of temperance and other moral reforms in an excellent address at the First M. E. church Thursday night at the closing session of the W. C. T. U. all day rally. The service was well attended by advocates of the temperance movement. The Rev. Mr. Owen is a clear thinker and a forceful speaker and presented his arguments in favor of moral advancement in a telling and effective manner.

The speaker reviewed the general line of progress that has been witnessed during the past century and said that one of the next great moves would be the abolishment of the legalized liquor traffic. He spoke of the evils and crime that accompanied the saloon and that many of the so-called problems could be avoided if the manufacture and sale of intoxicants were prohibited by a national law.

The Rev. Mr. Owen took the optimistic viewpoint that the liquor traffic was doomed and that its obituary would soon be read. He referred to the growing sentiment against the open saloon and to the sale of liquor from the economic standpoint. He declared that the moral people of the country, both church members and non-church members, were joining hands to make an effective fight against the manufacture of liquor.

During his address, the Rev. Mr. Owen spoke of other evils of the country and asserted that many of these were being met face to face and solved in an effective manner. He gave a number of illustrations of where communities were arising to the demands of the occasion and stamping out forever forms of graft, immoralities and many other evils which a few years ago were so general.

The meeting was opened with singing by the audience and the hymn was followed by a prayer by Rev. M. T. Brandyberry, pastor of the Nazarene church. A song was rendered by a male quartet and Dr. D. L. Thomas, pastor of the First M. E. church, read a passage of scripture. Mrs. H. A. Schwab gave a recitation, "The Rum Mill's Grist," which was appreciated. The address of the evening followed a duet, "We Are Marching On." Short addresses were given at the close of the session by Rev. T. C. Smith and Rev. Mr. Thomas.

Every session of the rally day program was well attended Thursday. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon a meeting for the school children was held and talks were given by Prof. T. A. Mott and Jay C. Smith. The latter showed a chemical experiment to impress upon the young minds the effect of the drink habit.

DIXON "BACK IN TOWN" BUT HAD NO POSTOFFICE DOPE

However, Congressman Said Appointment Would be Announced in "Sufficient Time."

Congressman Lincoln Dixon was in the city a short time this afternoon having come from North Vernon to meet a friend from Columbus for a conference on business matters. It is said that the conference did not pertain to politics.

When asked about the local post office situation, Congressman Dixon said the appointment would be made in plenty of time so that the successful candidate could obtain his bond and commission and be ready to take the office when the term of Postmaster Remy expired. "There will be no holdover in Seymour," said Congressman Dixon, "and the appointment will be made so that a Democrat can take the office as soon as the present term expires." He would not state just when the appointment would be announced.

Congressman Dixon will leave for Washington Saturday and is looking for a very busy session of Congress. He said he had a few business matters he desired to arrange before he departed and had also been detained on account of the illness of his mother. He said there would probably be some trust legislation during the present session.

The Congressman did not talk "postoffice" with any of the "boys", as he expressed it, while in Seymour. He said he desired to appoint the man who was well qualified for the position and so after the appointment was made the people generally would declare that the successful candidate was capable.

ECONOMIC CLUBS MAY BE ORGANIZED

Purpose of New Association is to Beautify The Home of Indiana Farmers.

DISCUSSED AT SHORT COURSE

Resolution Adopted Favoring Passage by Congress of Agricultural Extension Bill.

Lafayette, Ind., January 16—Organization of farm women into home economics clubs is to be taken up in every county in the state by the Indiana Home Economics Association, which has concluded its first annual convention at Purdue university in connection with the farmers' short course. One feature of the clubs' work will be the beautifications of farm homes. About five hundred women attended the convention and by evening yesterday the enrollment at the short course had passed the long sought for two thousand mark. This was made possible by the arrival of a large number of women to attend the association convention and by the arrival of large delegations of school children from towns in surrounding counties.

Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City, was unanimously re-elected president of the Indiana Home Economics Association. Mrs. Flora M. Meeks, of Parker, was re-elected vice-president, and Mrs. Lewis Taylor, of Newburg, secretary-treasurer. On the recommendation of the nominating committee composed of Mrs. Oliver Kline, of Huntington; Mrs. Charles B. Stuart, of Lafayette, and Mrs. Elliott Cobb, of Richmond, the executive committee was enlarged by the appointment, as members of Professor George I. Christie and Professor Mary L. Mathews, of Purdue university.

President Meredith will appoint committees to act on suggestions offered by Professor G. I. Christie that a campaign for ornamentation of the exteriors of farm homes be undertaken, and that investigation be made to see what can be done in the way of home embellishment by the expenditure of $2. The convention voted unanimously to take up this work.

A resolution was also adopted favoring the passage by congress of the Lever bill for agricultural extension, which would take this work out of the hands of the United States department of agriculture and put it into the hands of the various state agricultural extension departments.

A FEW SURVIVED ISLAND DISASTER

Thirty-Three Found Alive On Doomed Sakura.

FOUND REFUGE IN A CAVE

Remarkable Rescue Effected by Band of Sailors From a Japanese Warship of a Group of Terrified Islanders Who Had Been Sealed Into a Cave by Ashes From the Belching Volcano Sakurashima.

Nagasaki, Jan. 16.—Five thousand of the 12,000 inhabitants of the island of Sakura, where the Sakurashima volcano is located, have been accounted for. Nothing is known as to the fate of the other 7,000. One hundred thousand people who live on the mainland are homeless.

Kagoshima, Jan. 16.—Thirty-three persons, men and women, terror-stricken and nearly starving, were rescued from a cave near the shore on the island of Sakura, devastated by Sakurashima volcano. Their rescuers, a band of sailors from a Japanese warship, had to dig their way through hot ashes and warm lava six feet deep.

So far as is known these are the only people caught on Sakura when the volcano burst into eruption, who escaped death. There were 15,000 inhabitants. Five thousand of them escaped to the mainland during the day of January 12, before Sakurashima burst into full eruption. A few hundred are supposed to have escaped in small boats during the first hour of the disaster, although many of these boats were swamped.

The sailors had to dig their way to the cave's entrance, where those rescued had taken refuge, and carried the men and women back to the boat.

From these survivors came the first graphic stories of men, women and children overcome in their attempted flight. Many, they said, were struck down by falling volcanic rocks, and hundreds were caught in rushing streams of boiling lava and seen no more. They themselves had taken refuge in the cave until the rain of ashes and lava had ceased. They were then unable to venture forth, being marooned by half-cooled lava and ashes.

Many of the people of Kagoshima have returned to find their homes destroyed and the city without provisions. They are being cared for by the cruiser squadron. Camps have been set up in the open spaces for the survivors to sleep in.

The general volcanic activity on the island of Kishu is gradually abating. The work of restoring railways and telegraphic communication is being done as quickly as possible. The damage done is immense, though as yet no appropriate estimate of the number killed and the property destroyed can be made.

Little Hope of Saving Any Part of the Wrecked Cobequid.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 16.—The government steamer Lansdowne, with Captain Howson and fourteen members of the crew of the wrecked Cobequid, arrived in port last evening at 5:30 and the survivors are resting in comfort.

The party on the Lansdowne was taken off the wreck after the others had been landed at Yarmouth. When the Lansdowne left, the Cobequid was down by the head and covered with ice. All to be seen above water was the upper deckhouse, the funnel and masts. There is little hope of saving any part of the wreck.

Prize Winners to See Wilson.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The president has made an appointment to receive the eight Indiana prize winning members of the State Agricultural club on Thursday. The arrangements were made by Z. M. Smith, state agent of the club. For the purpose of competition the state was divided into eight districts, and the winner from each district is coming. The secretary of agriculture has also arranged to receive the prize winners.

Lawyer Kills Himself.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Attorney Isaac M. Jordan, a member of the University club and the divorced husband of Mrs. Kathryn C. Jordan, daughter of former United States Judge Peter S. Grosscup, shot himself and took poison in a parlor at the Palmer house yesterday afternoon. He was dead when attendants found him.

He Took "Protection Money."

Gary, Ind., Jan. 16.—Joseph Sandir, a patrolman of the Gary police force for years, was discharged by Chief Heintz, new head of the police department. According to Heintz, Sandir confessed receiving $79 in "protection money" from Mrs. Flora Danch.

Destroyed For Second Time.

Hartford City, Jan. 16.—The old three-story Dick block, destroyed fifteen years ago by a gas explosion, in which four people lost their lives, was gutted by fire yesterday with a loss of $11,000. The blaze caught on the second floor from an ash box.

HEY! QUICK, BOYS, HERES MAIL FROM MOO YORK, FROM PECK

New York
Dec. 18, 1913

Dear Joe— Believe me Joe, New York is some gay village. Joe, after a guy gets that first boiler-factory sensation out of his bean he cant walk ten steps without bumping his nose into a Subway Station, a few hundred saloon or an honest politician I was giving the City Hall the once over. On one side of the door it says "pull" on the other "push", which as the wiff says means you need a pull to get in with the push.

And the cops Joe, say, every time I ask a cop the way I keep both hands in my pockets and my coat buttoned. And, the restaurants, Joe. They dont talk English here at all. If a guy asks for a ham sand- with some swede hollers out- 'Pig between the sheets' One up! And the swell restaurants are just as bad 'They hand you your change on a plate. Maybe that's to create the illusion that you're in church with a collection plate in front of you

And the plays Joe—A guy cant walk down the lane without seeing such signs as "The Lost Soul" "The White Slave of the Red Right Joint" "Dopey Doremus, the dope of Dope Alley" or some such attraction with a hop-joint a couple of second story guys and three crooked police inspectors in it. By book, Joe the only place you can find an author of clean plays these days is on the Broad line or the Poor House

Hope I havent rode in the Subway yet my life insurance policy is only good from next week on. The barber-shops Joe! By book they do a fellow good in a barber-shop here. The only thing I cant see is why Jesse James risked his life on the western plains when for the small sum of a couple of hundred bucks he could have opened a barber shop in New York. And in every York-hanged barber in

New York that recommended a hair restorer to me, was so bald, the flies had a perfect skating rink on his dome. Well Joe I must close now. Give my regards to the boys and tip 'em off that the Spanish War is over and Taft and Roosevelt are running for President. In the mean time

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson III. January 18.
THE GOOD SAMARITAN.
Luke 10:25-37.

Golden Text.—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Mark 12:31.

The record of the good Samaritan is found only here, but the question with which the lesson opens, "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" is found also in chapter xviii, 18, and the parallel passages in Matt. xix, 16; Mark x, 17. Both in this lesson and in the story of the rich young ruler our Lord directed them to the law, for there can be no life eternal without the conviction of sin. He came not to call the righteous, those who think they are righteous, but sinners to repentance (Matt. ix, 13).

The only Saviour revealed in Scripture is a Saviour for sinners, one who came to save lost people. There have been, and always are, those who go about to establish their own righteousness, being ignorant of the righteousness of God (Rom. x, 3). That which is necessary to enter the kingdom is the perfect righteousness of a perfect law, as explained by our Lord in what is called the Sermon on the Mount. No mere man ever had of himself such a righteousness; the Lord Jesus Christ alone fulfilled every jot and tittle of the law (Matt. v, 18), and when any one pleads guilty and comes to Him and receives Him, they have in Him an absolutely perfect righteousness which God has accepted.

That the law cannot save, but only convinces of sin. See Rom. iii, 19, 20; Gal. iii, 21, 22. That Christ bare our sins and is made unto us righteousness. See II Cor. v, 21; I Cor. i, 30, 31; Rom. x, 4. "What is written? How readest thou?" (verse 26) are two questions of the utmost importance. That which is written by the Holy Spirit is forever settled in heaven (Ps. cxix, 89), and we are to receive it as a little child would, believing every word, seeing everywhere Him of whom Moses in the law and the prophets did write. Jesus of Nazareth (John i, 45; Luke xiv, 27, 44).

When Philip was asked to explain the Scripture to the treasurer of Queen Candace he began at the same Scripture and preached unto him Jesus (Acts viii, 35), and so it should be always. From Gen. i, 1 to Rev. xxii, 21, we must see Jesus Christ, Creator, Redeemer, Judge, our great High Priest, the coming King, and to anointed eyes He may be as plainly seen in the first verse as the last.

The lawyer was cornered, as we say, and would fain justify himself, like those in Luke xvi, 15. It is more flattering to self to be praised rather than condemned. It is the manner of men to seek praise one of another, to desire the good opinion of men rather than the approval of God, but the word of God never flatters any mere man, it always condemns him and points him to the only perfect man, Christ Jesus. The lawyer's question, "Who is my neighbor?" is answered by our Lord's story of the good Samaritan, who is none other than Himself. The man from Jerusalem, city of peace, to Jericho, the condemned city (Josh. vi, 26), may represent the down grade of all mankind.

The thieves suggest the devil and his demons, and demon possessed men and women, whose business it is to steal and to kill and to destroy (John x, 10).

The priest and Levite who passed by on the other side represent the utter inability of the law or ordinances or any form of religiousness to help the sinner who is not only half dead, but wholly dead in trespasses and sins (Eph. ii, 1-3). The conduct of the Samaritan has at least seven distinct points—came where he was, had compassion, bound up his wounds, poured in oil and wine, set him on his own beast, brought him to an inn, took care of him.

The Lord Jesus came where we were, came from heaven to earth to save us, became sin for us, died in our stead. Our condition is described in Isa. i, 6, as having no soundness, but wounds, bruises and putrefying sores, which have not been closed and bound up nor mollified with ointment.

We have recently noticed the compassion of Christ upon the shepherdless multitudes (Matt. ix, 26), and it is often mentioned. He puts us in His place. He took ours that we might take His, and by faith in Him we are made accepted in the Beloved and stand complete in Him (Eph. i, 6, 7; Col. ii, 10). Having redeemed us, He takes care of us all the way home, urging us not to be anxious, for our Heavenly Father knoweth all our need, and teaching us to cast all our care upon Him, for He careth for us.

We have found rich spiritual instruction in the story, but the lawyer saw simply the unkindness of two and the kindness of the third and was asked to decide which was a neighbor to the man in trouble. The reply was easy. "He that shewed mercy on him." The Saviour's application was, "Go and do thou likewise." Compare His "This do and thou shalt live" of verse 28. Why this repeated "do?"

To prove him guilty as a breaker of the law, for he manifested no love to Jesus when he came to Him to tempt Him, neither had he proved himself any kind of a neighbor, for there was no mercy in his conduct toward Jesus. There is no life eternal by doing, for therein all men fail.

A New Teacher

—ADVERTISING

Advertising is becoming the national schoolmaster, as you may have observed as you scanned the columns of this and other leading newspapers.

Telephone companies who seek to improve their service advertise ways and means for using the phone to best advantage.

Some of them impress on the public the advantages of courtesy—using newspaper space actually to teach good manners. AND THEY SAY IT PAYS!

Gas companies every now and then run interesting campaigns explaining new uses for gas—uses which save time, labor and money!

Railroads and other great interests frequently appeal directly to the public on some great question, using the advertising columns of the newspapers.

All of this goes to make advertising a more interesting and important factor to our daily lives.

Not to read the announcements in the newspapers is to be out of date.

Wonderful Cough Remedy.

Dr. King's New Discovery is known everywhere as the remedy which will surely stop a cough or cold. D. P. Lawson of Eldon, Tenn., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the most wonderful cough, cold and throat and lung medicine I ever sold in my store. It can't be beat. It sells without any trouble at all. It needs no guarantee." This is true, because Dr. King's New Discovery will relieve the most obstinate of coughs and colds. Lung troubles quickly helped by its use. You should keep a bottle in the house at all times for all the members of the family. 50c and $1. Recommended by H. H. Carter, successor to Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

TEMPERANCE FORCES OF THIS COUNTY ARE ACTIVE

County Prohibition Convention in Session at Christian Church—
State Chairman Speaks.

The temperance forces are active in this county at the present time and following the W. C. T. U. rally Thursday the county prohibition convention convened at the Christian church today. J. Raymond Schmidt, state prohibition chairman, will deliver an address this evening at 7:30 o'clock. He is a good speaker and the temperance people are much interested in his address.

At the meeting this afternoon several matters of business were discussed. Mr. Schmidt was the principal speaker on the program and his address was greatly enjoyed.

In part he said:

"The liquor traffic owes its life to political intrigue. Were it possible to miraculously deprive it of political privilege, the curse of the thing would cease to be known in American political circles. As it is, the traffic stands in the way of manifold progress. The tenement house investigator is baffled on every hand by the subtleties of the evil depriving hundreds and thousands of decent living conditions. Lower tax advocates soon find taxes on the upgrade due to the extra revenue needed to care for the saloon's vile product. No sooner does a judge render valuable service to the people as against the bosses, than he is removed and another put in his place. The destinies of cities are the creatures of the monstrosities of shrewd cunning; men are but incidents in a mad scramble for earnings on brewery and distillery stock. Stripping the institution of its assumed respectability and more thoroughly revealing its underworld manipulations, we stand aghast declaring: 'The half has never been told.'"

"Booze is the dictator of party nominations; the author of party platforms; the invisible power in republican government. It wheedles the reformer; intimidates the preacher and emboldens the grafter. Business men realize the power of its boycott; the editor feels the check of brewery advertisements and the home crumbles under its blight.

"But, you inquire: What of the future? Is there no hope of relief? There is. The rainbow of promise is in the eastern sky. Public sentiment is overwhelmingly adverse to drunkenness; a decent citizenry revolt against booze-ocracy. As never before the source of the traffic's political power is becoming apparent; liquor makers and dealers stand as a unit for license as opposed to prohibition. They are ably seconded in their demands by professional politicians who look to the liquor controlled vote for their supremacy. Acting on the safe and sane principle that what the liquorites want is just the thing not to give them, there is an increasingly large number of good people today favoring the repeal of all license legislation. They do not stop here. The ultimate demand of an enraged public will be the total destruction of the traffic—the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. And even this will hardly appease a righteously indignant and long suffering people. Liquor serving candidates, parties and machines will not survive the landslide. Constitutional and administrative prohibition is the goal of the great reform."

MOVED TO THE HILLS BEFORE FLOOD CAME

Residents of Valley Warned of Breaking Dam.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 16.—When the dam of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, in Stony river, near Dobbin, W. Va., broke, a flood came that promised to cause a wholesale loss of life and property. While property loss amounts to thousands of dollars, the loss is much less than was at first reported. The dam was sixty-five feet high and 1,100 feet wide and held 3,000,000,000 gallons of water. Part of the force of the flood was broken by the opening of the sluices at the base of the dam.

Cracks were noticed in the dam and warnings were sent out to persons living along the valley. When the dam broke a wall of water thirty feet high surged down the valley and into the Potomac river, but the people of the valley had long before moved to the hills.

All the towns along the Stony and Potomac rivers were flooded, but the deluge of water decreased in force as it went downstream because of the widening of the river. The Stony river is 400 feet wide at the dam, while the Potomac is between 600 and 700 feet wide at Cumberland.

The Western Maryland railroad, which runs the flood district, suffered heavily from washouts of tracks. Two bridges were washed out. Refugees in the hills carried most of their household goods with them, so that the greater part of the loss is in buildings.

BRIDEGROOM HAD TO GO DISGUISED

Victims of Former Hazings Were Waiting

HE PUT ON WOMAN'S CLOTHES

Young Society Leader at Evansville Outwitted a Band of Young Married Men Who Waited For Him With Handcuffs, but Was Compelled to Start on Honeymoon Alone, Leaving His Anxious Bride to Follow Later.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 16.—With twenty-five young married men who had suffered at his hands, waiting for him with handcuffs, George D. Smith, twenty-five years old, who was married here to Miss Albion Bacon, disguised himself with rouge, a picture hat and a velvet coat, and walked through the waiting crowd, entered a motor car and, under the direction of detectives engaged to defend the newly wedded couple, drove to Terre Haute.

Smith had been the ringleader in the hazing of the newlyweds in society circles here and his victims banded together for revenge. Entering the Bacon home following the marriage ceremony, they attempted to take the bridegroom to a waiting automobile, but relented at the pleas of the bride and took up a stand outside. Disguised by the detectives, the bridegroom was first smuggled from the house and the bride followed early in the morning.

Young Mrs. Smith is the only daughter of Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, author of the Indiana housing law. She is a niece of Mrs. Anna Fellows Johnson, the author.

MAN SECURES DAMAGES

She Sued For Injuries Received in an Unnecessary Explosion.

Indianapolis, Jan. 16.—After the case of Mrs. Nelle Tingle against the National Refining company and Albert M. Jones had gone to trial in the circuit court and the attorneys had made their opening statements to the jury, a compromise was effected, the defendants agreeing to pay Mrs. Tingle $4,750. She sued for $50,000 damages for personal injuries.

Mrs. Tingle lives at Whiteland. She sent her little daughter to Jones's store for coal oil, Jones being the agent for the National Refining company. Jones made a mistake and filled the can with gasoline. The next day, when Mrs. Tingle poured some of the fluid on a grate fire there was an explosion and she was badly burned. She was confined to her bed for nine months.

APPELLATE COURT HOLDS OWNER OF AUTO MUST PAY

Sum Allowed by Jury to Proprietor of Columbus Garage for Work is Approved.

That an automobile owner must pay the proprietor of a garage for repairs made on the machine was the opinion of the Indiana appellate court in the case of Shore vs. Ogden appealed from the Bartholomew circuit court. The appellee is well known here and has conducted a garage at Columbus for several years.

An outline of the opinion handed down by the appellate court gives the finding and also the facts of the case.

(1) Appellant owned an automobile and took it to appellee's garage for repairs. Appellee's bill was $272.88, which appellant refused to pay and sued in replevin. Answer denial and setting up lien for repairs, also cross complaint for amount of repairs. Trial by jury, finding for appellant in replevin and for appellee on cross complaint for $225. Appeal on contention that there is no provision for cross complaint in replevin. Held that a lien for repairs on the article replevined is a matter so growing out of the transaction that a cross complaint is allowable.

The opinion was written by Judge Lairy.

Ugly Sores Quickly Banished

You Marvel How Worst Skin Eruptions Disappear as Result of Famous Remedy

If you should meet anyone varnishing a sore with a greasy ointment, your best advice would be to quit such things and attend to the blood.

To successfully fight any blood trouble, some eruptive skin disease—call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, dermatitis or scrofula—get your blood under the influence of S. S. S. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood, for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all excretories of the body are marshalled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of eruptive disease.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy to-day, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar, write to the Swift Specific Co., 216 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not permit anyone to talk you into some useless compound they put up as a substitute for S. S. S. No honest druggist will do this.

ATTORNEY FINED FOR RUNNING "BLIND PIG"

Not Only That, But He Is Facing Disbarment.

Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 15.—Judge Combs in circuit court here, denied the request of the attorneys for Ben Goldsberry, the Colfax attorney who entered a plea of guilty to keeping a room where intoxicating liquors were sold to release him under suspended sentence. The court fined Goldsberry $250 and sentenced him to ninety days in the county jail. Goldsberry announced that unless his friends came to his aid he would be unable to pay the fine, and in this case he will have 352 days to serve in the jail.

After pronouncing sentence Judge Combs named a committee of attorneys to prepare and file charge against Goldsberry, instructing them to begin disbarment proceedings. Goldsberry is a member of the Clinton County Bar association and will be the first attorney in the county facing disbarment proceedings.

RURAL CREDITS NECESSARY

Indiana Congressman Getting Some Information Along This Line.

Washington, Jan. 15.—With the view to ascertaining to what extent, if any, the new currency system will discriminate against the farmers of the country, Representative Ralph W. Moss of the Terre Haute district, sent out 1,000 letters to as many bankers. He directed his inquiries to the presidents of each bank whose capitalization is under $25,000.

"I have found," he said, "that there are 170 banks in Indiana whose individual capital is under $25,000, and I have addressed a letter of inquiry to the president of each to find out, if I can, how many propose to become member banks under the new currency system. I am eager to know to what extent rediscounting will be carried on. My notion is that the farmer is going to get the worst of it when the new currency system gets under way unless a practicable rural credits system is worked out along the lines that the commission of which I am a member has suggested." Mr. Moss said that the prospects for the passage of rural credits legislation during this session are bright.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Seymour People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Seymour.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now makes his testimony even stronger.

A. P. Williams, 217 S. Broadway, Seymour, Ind., says: "I suffered intensely from troubles, caused by my kidneys. I tried every remedy I heard of, but got no permanent relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition and improved my health."

Added Praise.

During a personal interview on June 25, 1912, Mr. Williams said: "I have had no serious trouble from my kidneys since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I still use this remedy whenever I feel in need of a kidney tonic and I get good results."

THREAT TO VETO BIG SUPPLY BILL

The President Defends the Classified Service.

OPPOSITION IN THE HOUSE

Representative Moon, Chairman of the Committee on Postoffices, Who Is Insistent on Lifting Assistant Postmasters From the Classified Service and Turning Them Over to "the Faithful," Breathes Defiance.

Washington, Jan. 16.—In opposition to the rider on the postoffice bill which would return assistant postmasters to appointment by spoils hunters, President Wilson has decided to make a stand for the merit principle.

He has determined to prevent any further raids upon the classified service, such as were made in the passage of the tariff, currency and urgent deficiency bills at the last session. These measures withdrew from the classified service thousands of desirable positions and placed them at the disposal of "the faithful."

The statement is made on high authority that the president would veto the postoffice appropriation bill if it came to him with the objectionable rider attached.

It has become known that the president has already taken steps to inform house leaders of the administration's attitude toward the proposed rider. This was done in a letter written with the president's knowledge and approval by Postmaster General Burleson to Chairman Moon of the house committee on postoffices and post roads. Mr. Burleson in this letter denounced the proposed exemption as subversive of the best interests of the postal service.

In this letter the postmaster general said in part:

"In the interest of the most efficient and effective postal service it is vitally important that the positions of assistant postmasters be filled by persons especially qualified to discharge the duties thereof, and I feel that no persons should hold the position of assistant postmaster whose capacity and efficiency has not been properly and thoroughly tested."

Evidence of the temper in the house on the question was given in the debate on the postoffice appropriation bill. Representative Moon of Tennessee, who is in charge of the bill, flung defiance at President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson. Mr. Moon takes the position that the house committee is entirely within its rights in inserting in the bill provision for the elimination of the civil service orders applying to assistant postmasters.

Mr. Moon declared that executive objection to the hunt of the spoilsmen should not deter the house majority from standing by its principles. He remarked that the president's prerogative of veto was sufficient perhaps to neutralize the effect of the expressed wish of a majority, and that if the house was not able to override the presidential veto, so much the worse for the house.

Mr. Moon expressed the opinion that "none but Democrats should be put on guard." He considered the last presidential election "a victory not alone for Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall, but for the whole Democratic party."

DEATH STOPPED WEDDING

Prominent Railway Official Victim of Gas Asphyxiation.

New York, Jan. 16.—Richard Dixie Langford, aged forty-five, vice president and secretary of the Southern railway and director of many allied corporations, was killed by gas in the bathroom of his apartment in Brooklyn. He was to have been married tomorrow to Miss Nellie Patterson.

The police blotter says "apparent suicide." Dr. Volk, the coroner's physician, believes that death was accidental. On the death certificate he simply wrote "cause of death, gas asphyxiation."

Langford was troubled at times by insomnia, and the past few weeks he had slept little. He rarely complained of his health, however, and there is abundant evidence that he was happy in every relation of life and on the last night of his life was cheerfully arranging the details of his wedding. The announcements were ready for distribution. His trunk was packed. The last thing he did was to write the wedding trip destination, the Marlborough Blenheim, Atlantic City, on baggage tags. On the table of his sitting room were notices of the marriage to be sent to newspapers.

CHAPTER XIX.

"What About Me?"

KIRK replied dryly, looking the Spaniard over with cold blue eyes. "No! I think you've gone about far enough."

"You refuse?" exclaimed Ramon triumphantly.

"Look here!" said Kirk. "I've had enough of this." He advanced threateningly, and the Spaniard nervously gave way. "I don't fight duels. It's against the law. In my country it's a crime to kill a man in cold blood, and we don't tie a fellow up and beat him when he's helpless and then offer him the honorable satisfaction of either committing murder or being killed. They're not wearing duels this season." His hands clinched involuntarily. "I don't want to hurt you, Alfarez, but I may not be able to help it if you don't keep out of my way."

He left the fiery little Panamanian still scowling and muttering threats and went his way, wondering vaguely how his attentions to Chiquita had become so quickly known. He was informed later in the afternoon.

As he left the office for the day he was handed a note from Mrs. Cortlandt requesting him to call at once, and, summoning a coach, he was driven directly to her house. Unlike the Garavel home, the house which the Cortlandts had leased was set upon the water front, its rear balcony overlooking the sea where it lapped the foundation of the city wall.

Edith kept him waiting a moment before she descended, dressed for her afternoon ride.

"You got my note?"

"Yes, and I came straight from the office."

"I suppose you know what it is about and are wondering how I heard the news."

"What news?"

"Your 'engagement.'"

"You're the second one to speak about that. I'm not engaged."

"Of course not. Don't think for a moment I believed it. I was calling on some Spanish people this afternoon and heard the report. I admit it was a shock. When I learned the details I knew at once you ought to be told before it developed into something embarrassing. Come into the other room; there is a breeze from the water."

She led him into the parlor, from which the open windows, shielded now by drawn shutters, gave egress to the rear porch with its chairs and hammock.

"Dear, dear! You foolish boy, you're always in trouble, aren't you? You really don't deserve to be helped. Why, you have avoided me for weeks."

"The new arrangement has swamped us with work. I have had no time to go out."

"Indeed! You had time to run after the first pretty Spanish face you saw."

"You mean Miss Garavel?"

"Yes. Didn't you realize what you were doing?"

"I realized what I was trying to do. But I could understand better what you are talking about if I knew just what this difficulty is."

"Why, this silly 'engagement' of yours. Don't pretend to be so stupid."

"Ramon Alfarez heard that same report and very courteously invited me to wait a few minutes while he killed me. It's tremendously flattering to be linked up with Miss Garavel, of course, but I haven't asked her to marry me."

"But you've seen her. You have called at her house."

"Sure! Twice, at the invitation of the old gentleman. All the little Garavels were lined up like mourners."

"And you dined there last night. Is that all you have seen of her?"

"No. I've seen her at Las Savannas. That's why I went hunting so often."

At this confession, which Kirk delivered with sheepish reluctance, Mrs. Cortlandt drew herself up with an expression of anger.

"Then this has been going on for some time!" she cried. "Why, Kirk, you never told me."

"Why should I?"

She flushed at this unconscious brutality, but after a moment ran on bravely: "But why did you let it go so far? Why did you let them commit you?"

"Am I committed?"

Her look was half offended, half incredulous. "Are you trying to be disagreeable, or is it possible you don't know the meaning of those invitations to call and to dine with the family, and all that? Why, they expect you to marry her. It is all settled now, according to the Spanish custom. The whole town is talking about it."

"I hope you're not joking," said Kirk. "Jove! I'm knocked clear off my pins."

A tremendous wave of excitement surged over him. "So that's what Alfarez meant. That's what she meant last night when she told me to look up"—He broke off suddenly, for Edith's face had gone chalk white.

"But, Kirk, what about me?" she asked in a strained voice.

There was deathlike silence in the room.

"You can't love her," said the woman. "Why, she's only a child, and she's—Spanish."

They stood motionless, facing each other. At last Kirk said gravely and deliberately:

"Yes, I love her better than anything in the world, and I want to marry her. I could give up my country, my dad—anything for her."

Pressing her gloved fingers to her temples, she turned her head blindly from side to side, whispering as if to herself.

"What will become of me?"

"Don't!" he cried in a panic and cast a hurried look over his shoulders. "You'll be overheard. Where's Cortlandt?"

"At his club, I suppose. I don't know—I don't care. You've been dishonest with me, Kirk."

"Don't act this way," he ordered roughly. "I'm terribly fond of you, but I never knew!"

"You must have known."

"I knew nothing. I chose not to think. What I saw I forgot. I supposed you merely liked me as I liked you."

"You say you didn't know. Then what about that afternoon in the jungle? Oh, you're not blind. You must have seen a thousand times. Every hour we've been alone together I've told you, and you let me go on believing you cared. I have no pride. I am not ashamed. It's too late for shame now. Why, even my husband knows."

With an exclamation she seized her by the arm. "You don't mean that!" he cried fiercely. But she wrenched herself away.

"Why do you think I made a man of you? Why did I force you up and over the heads of others? Why are you in line for the best position on the railroad? Did you think you had made good by your own efforts?" She laughed harshly. "I took Runnels and Wade and Kimble and the others that you liked and forced them up with you, so you'd have an organization that couldn't be pulled down."

"Did—did you do all that?"

"I did more. I broke with Alfarez because of what his son did to you. I juggled the politics of this country. I threw him over and took Garavel—Garavel! My God, what a mockery! But I won't let you—I won't let that girl spoil my work. I fostered this quarrel between Jolson and the superintendent, and I've used Runnels to break trail for you. Why? Ask yourself why! Oh, Kirk," she cried, "you mustn't marry that girl! I'll make you a great man!"

"You seem to forget Cortlandt," he said dully.

She gave a scornful laugh. "You needn't bring Stephen in. He doesn't count. I doubt if he'd even care."

"I'm not going to listen to you," he cried. "I suppose I've been a fool, but this must end right here."

"You can't marry that girl," she reiterated, hysterically. She was half sobbing again, but not with the weakness of a woman; her grief was more like that of a despairing man.

"For heaven's sake, pull yourself together," said Kirk. "You have servants. I—I don't know what to say. I want to get out. I want to think it over. I'm—dreadfully sorry. That's all I can seem to think about now."

He turned and went blindly to the door, leaving her without a look behind.

When he had gone she drew off her riding gloves, removed her hat and dropped them both upon the nearest chair, then crept wearily up the stairs to her room.

A moment later the latticed wooden blinds at the end of the parlor swung open, and through the front window stepped Stephen Cortlandt. Behind him was a hammock swung in the coolest part of the balcony. The pupils of his eyes, ordinarily so dead and expressionless, were distended like those of a man under the influence of a drug or suffering from a violent headache. He listened attentively for an instant, his head on one side, then, hearing footsteps approaching from the rear of the house, he strolled into the hall.

A maid appeared with a tray, a glass and a bottle. "I could not find the medicine," she said, "but I brought you some absinthe. It will deaden the pain, sir."

He thanked her and with shaking fingers poured the glass full, then drank it off like so much water. "You're not going out again in the heat, sir?"

"Yes. Tell Mrs. Cortlandt that I am dining at the University club."

Kirk never passed a more unpleasant night than the one which followed. In the morning he went straight to Runnels with the statement that he could take no part in the little testimonial they had intended to give Cortlandt.

"But it's too late now to back out. I saw him at the University club last evening and fixed the date for Saturday night."

"Did you tell him I was in the affair?"

"Certainly. I said it was your idea. It affected him deeply too. I never saw a chap so moved over a little thing."

Kirk thought quickly. Perhaps Edith had spoken rashly in her excitement and her husband did not know her feelings after all. Perhaps he only suspected. In that case it would never do to withdraw. It would seem like a confession of guilt.

"If he has accepted that ends it, I suppose," he said finally.

"What has happened?" Runnels was watching him sharply.

"Nothing. I merely wish I hadn't entered into the arrangement, that's all. I've ordered a watch for him, too, and it's being engraved. I wanted to give him something to show my own personal gratitude for what he and his wife have done for me. Lord! It took a month's salary. I know it's a jay present, but there's nothing decent in these shops."

"Look here! I've wanted to say something to you for some time, though it's deuced hard to speak of such things. Steve Cortlandt has put us where we are. You understand, when I speak of him I include his wife too. Well, I like him, Kirk, and I'd hate to see him made unhappy. If a chap loves a married woman he ought to be man enough to forget it. Rotten way to express myself, of course!"

Kirk looked the speaker squarely in the eyes as he answered: "I haven't the least interest in any married man's affairs, never have had, in fact. I'm in love with Gertrudis Garavel, and I'm engaged to marry her."

"The devil!"

"It's a fact. I didn't know until last night that I'd been accepted."

"Then just forget what I said. I was going north on a south bound track—I ran ahead of orders. I really do congratulate you, old man. Miss Garavel is—well, I won't try to do her justice—I had no idea. Please pardon me."

"Certainly. Now that it's settled I'm not going to let any grass grow under my feet."

"Why, say! Garavel is to be the next president! Jove, you're lucky! Cortlandt told me last night that the old fellow's candidacy was to be announced Saturday night at the big ball. That's how he came to accept our invitation. He said his work would be over by then, and he'd be glad to join us after the dance. Well, well! Your future wife and father-in-law are to be his guests that night, I suppose you know."

"Then they have patched up a truce with Alfarez? I'm glad to hear that."

"It's all settled, I believe. This dance is a big special event. The American minister and the various diplomatic gangs will be there, besides the prominent Spanish people. It's precisely the moment to launch the Garavel boom, and Cortlandt intends to do it. After it's over our little crowd will have supper and thank him for what he has done for us. Your promotion came just in time, didn't it? Talk about luck! We ought to hear from Washington before Saturday and know that our jobs are clinched. This uncertainty is fierce for me. You know, I have a wife and kid, and it means a lot. When you give Cortlandt that watch you'll have to present him with a loving cup from the rest of us. I think it's coming to him, don't you?"

"I—I'd rather you presented it."

"Not much! I can run trains, but I can't engineer social functions. You'll have to be spokesman."

TO EASE THE LOT OF WOMEN ON THE FARM

Secretary of Agriculture Making Some Inquiries.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Realizing that the woman on the farm is the principal person in a position to make rural life more attractive, Secretary Houston will soon ask the congress for the means and authority to enable the department of agriculture to make a more complete study of domestic conditions on the farm. The department has already done some work along this line, but the secretary desires to go deeper into the matter of helping the wives and daughters and sisters of the farmers.

Some time ago the department of agriculture addressed a circular letter to 55,000 women who live on farms throughout the United States. Answers to this letter are being received daily. This letter asked no questions, but left every woman to discuss any need that occurred to her. She was invited to take up the matter with her neighbors and make the reply that represented not merely her personal ideas of reforms, but the suggestions of the women of her community. There has not been sufficient time for a complete analysis of these answers, but from those that have so far been read it is evident that farm women wish federal help in practically every phase of home management, from the rearing and care of children to methods of having the heavy household work done by co-operative agencies. The overwork of farm women and their fear of the ill effect of overwork on their children made up the texts of scores of these letters. The servant problem, the department of agriculture has shown, is another thing that has added to the farm housekeeper's burden.

Baukus Was Brought Back.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 15.—Anthony Baukus, former councilman, who "jumped" his bond in 1911, after he had made an alleged confession in connection with the Dean Crownline bribery charges, has reached Crown Point with Sheriff Whitaker. Baukus was arrested in Los Angeles by detectives hired by his bondsmen.
